

for they believe the real thing is always best.

Of course, as great as the rest may seem, no festival could be properly ended with a good old-time hymn singing at the high school gym along with "brush arbor" services at nearby Timbo, Sunday afternoon.

Not only does the festival and crafts show provide a consistent list of things to do and see, but the surrounding area, the beautiful countryside, is in the midst of one of the loveliest seasons of the year—Dogwood Time. As April comes, the Dogwood, Sarsaparilla and Wild Plum blooms begin to scatter and grace the landscape providing a picturesque background.

Last year some 36,000 people from every corner of the nation came to this village (population 1,509), high in the Ozark Mountains, to once again be assured that this valuable art is not of the past or will it ever be. The people of Mountain View, Timbo and the Rackensackers, look forward to the festival, but it takes practice to be the best, which they are. Every Friday night, throughout the year, this mountainous area echoes with the sound of music and the face of each of these people, the nation's real folk artists, boasts a smile which says "come on in and sit a spell."

and violence but must continue to work for justice and equality.

Wallace Peterson, a Democratic candidate for the seat of Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Meb., said, "The turning point in the President's fight undoubtedly came when Sen. Hruska made his defense of mediocrity."

Hruska, a Carswell supporter, had said, "Even if he (Carswell) was mediocre, there are a lot of mediocre judges and people and lawyers. They are entitled to a little representation, aren't they, and a little chance? We can't have all Brandeises and Cardozos and Frankfurters and stuff like that there."

Whitney M. Young, Jr., executive director of the Urban League, said: "Our faith in the Senate has been greatly restored by this action." He urged President Nixon "to nominate someone, from whatever region or political party, whose commitment to racial justice and equality is unquestioned."

Florida State Democratic party Chairman Pat Thomas said, "It is a victory for a few narrow-minded individuals who led the opposition and who are as bigoted as they unfairly accused Judge Carswell of being."

The defeat was called "tangible evidence of sectionalism at its worst" by Alabama Gov. Albert Brewer.

No General Precipitation Is Expected

The U.S. Weather Bureau says that although no general precipitation is expected during the next day or two, lighter winds should bring some decrease in the forest fire hazard.

Forestry officials have expressed concern over the dry, wind conditions which have led to the destruction of Arkansas timberland by fire.

A weak frontal zone is expected to become stationary over the southern section of the state by tonight with a chance of a few showers mainly over the east and south tonight and Friday.

Temperatures will be slightly cooler over the northern half of the state through Friday with a little change in the south.

Highs Wednesday ranged from 82 at Pine Bluff to 78 at Fayetteville.

Overnight lows were Fayetteville 53, Harrison 50, Jonesboro 58, Pine Bluff 63, Texarkana 63, El Dorado 60, Memphis 62, Little Rock 58, and Fort Smith 55.

Mrs. Mitchell Condemns Fulbright

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Gazette reported today that Martha Mitchell, wife of Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, called the paper early this morning and said it was a "damn shame" that Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., had voted against confirmation of Judge G. Harrold Carswell.

The call to the newspaper came at about 2 a.m. and an account of it appeared in late Thursday morning editions.

This is how the conversation went, according to the newspaper story.

Mrs. Mitchell said Fulbright's vote on the Supreme Court nomination was "crucial for Arkansas" and for the nation, saying Fulbright could have "swayed" other votes to the extent that Carswell would have been confirmed. He lost, 51-45.

"It makes me so damn mad I can't stand it," Mrs. Mitchell was quoted as saying. "He could have done a great deal for the whole vote."

Mrs. Mitchell, a native of Pine Bluff, said Arkansas is her home state and that "Mr. Fulbright does not represent the state."

"I want you (the Gazette) to crucify Fulbright and that's it," Mrs. Mitchell said.

Mrs. Mitchell told the Gazette, the largest daily newspaper in the state, that she had just talked to "three or four people" from Arkansas who are "very influential" and they said "they would disown" Fulbright.

She refused to comment on how her husband felt about the vote.

"I don't know how my husband feels about it because I am the one most interested," she said.

Mrs. Mitchell, who said she was very upset by Fulbright's vote, said, "He is not representing the people of Arkansas. I love Arkansas and I want everything possible for my state."

She said her husband has told her that he learned that Fulbright has said he will not run for re-election and this probably played a part in his decision to vote against Carswell.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has not said publicly whether he will seek re-election.

There was no official comment from the Justice Department today about the call. However department sources said there was no doubt that the caller had indeed been the wife of the attorney general.

Fulbright could not be reached in Washington but his press aide, Hoyt Purvis, said the senator declined to comment, at least for the time being.

The report that the senator will not seek re-election is "idle gossip, pure speculation," Purvis said.

He added that about 200 telegrams, including about 100 from Arkansas, had been received since Fulbright voted against Carswell.

"I would say that a substantial majority side with Carswell," Purvis said. "There were a few against him, but most of them opposed the senator's position."

Shover Springs Service Sunday

A former pastor of the Shover Springs Baptist Church, the Rev. W.J. Burgess, of Greenbrier, will return Sunday to deliver the 11 a.m. sermon. Lunch will be served at noon. Everyone is invited.

told newsmen "a little earthy discussion with senators" would be advisable before the administration selects another nominee.

Echoing the sentiment for prior discussion were Republican Leader Hugh Scott and his Pennsylvania colleague, Sen. Richard S. Schweiker.

Asked about this, Ziegler said he would not discuss procedures.

The vote rejecting Carswell, now a judge on the 5th U.S. Court of Appeals, touched off a two-minute outburst of cheers, wild clapping and a few scattered boos by spectators, tourists and government workers in the packed Senate galleries.

Repeated calls for order by Senate leaders went unheeded.

Although Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, the presiding officer, cautioned spectators against demonstrations during the roll call, there was a brief outburst of applause when Sen. Marlow Cook, R-Ky., cast his "no" vote.

That was crucial, for Cook was the first of the uncommitted senators to vote—and his ballot was the tipoff to the outcome.

The vote reversed the initial victory Carswell's supporters fashioned Monday when the Senate defeated, 52 to 44, a motion to return the nomination to its Judiciary Committee.

But the difference was that seven senators who voted against recommitment cast their votes against Carswell—and there were no switches the other way.

In this group were five Republicans, Cook, Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, Charles H. Percy of Illinois, Robert Packwood of Oregon, and Hiram L. Fong of Hawaii. Democrats were Quentin Burdick of North Dakota and Thomas I. Dodd of Connecticut.

Twenty-eight Republicans voted for the Tallahassee, Fla., federal judge and 13 GOP members against, while 17 Democrats favored the nomination and 38 opposed it.

Carswell said after the vote the President urged him to stay in his present post and "I intend to do so. After a little rest, we'll be back on the job."

Carswell's statement, issued at Tallahassee, called it "an agonizing experience for me, my family and my friends, but to have taken up the gauntlet and joined the debate would have been unbecoming of a nominee to the Supreme Court of the United States."

He added: "On a purely personal basis, we have no intention of becoming bitter or remorseful for there is no basis for it."

Issues About Your Social Security

By KEN HARGIS

If you have any questions regarding social security, I invite your letters. Just send them to Social Security, Ken Hargis, P.O. Box 1319, Texarkana, Texas 75501.

QUESTION: I am 64 years old and have never worked under social security. Will I have to wait until my husband starts his social security before I can draw on his record?

ANSWER: Yes. A wife who has no work under social security can not qualify for benefits until her husband does.

QUESTION: I will soon be age 65. I intend to continue working and I understand that I cannot receive social security. Why is that?

ANSWER: The law was intended to partially replace earnings which are reduced or cut off by retirement, disability, or death. One who chooses to continue to work and earn substantial income, has not suffered the loss against which he is insured, therefore no payments can be paid until earnings are reduced, or until you reach age 72, at which time social security becomes an annuity.

QUESTION: Has any consideration been given toward reducing the age (now 72) at which benefits can be paid without regard to the amount earned?

ANSWER: Yes, the question has been carefully studied. If benefits should be paid to all workers upon the attainment of age 65, total benefit payments would increase by approximately $2 billion dollars a year to about 2 million retired workers. Under the present plan of financing retirement insurance by payroll taxes, that would mean that all workers would have to pay higher taxes to support payments to relatively few who would have full employment and benefits too under your proposal.

QUESTION: Will I have to completely retire to receive any benefits at age 65?

ANSWER: No a beneficiary may earn as much as $1680 a year and still receive full benefits. As scheduled in the law, some benefits can often be paid when earnings are higher. Also, please bear in mind that we are speaking here of EARNINGS only. Other income such as interest, dividends, rent, pension, or royalties do not affect the payment of benefits at all.

QUESTION: Will my earnings affect my wife's benefits too?

ANSWER: The payment of benefits to members of the worker's family on his record are subject to deductions if the worker exceeds the permitted amount of earnings. However, if the wife's benefits are payable on her own record, her husband's earnings would not affect her right to payments.

REGISTERED NURSES MEET

In a meeting, Tuesday, April 7 at Memorial Hospital, the District 16 Registered Nurses Association voted to sponsor a scholarship for a nursing student. Details of the sale will be disclosed later.

Mrs. Sue Sillavan had an interesting and informative program, as she told of her work as an RN in the Hope School system. Cookies, tea and coffee were served to 10.

It was announced that a dinner meeting would be held in DeQueen in May.

SPANISH CULTURE THEME OF MEET

When the Alpha Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma went to Washington April 7 for a meeting in the home of Mrs. Charlean Etter, "Spanish Culture" was the theme of the program. A native of Mexico City who is attending college in Arkadelphia under a DKG sponsorship, Carmen Marquez, spoke to the teachers' organization on the life and culture of her homeland. An outstanding student of Spanish at Hope High, Debra Cox of Washington, gave additional helpful information on the subject. The program was arranged by Mrs. Anna Mae Williams, Spanish Language instructor.

The brief, routine business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Edith Brown. Mrs. Etter and her co-hostess, Mary Margaret Haynes, served a dessert plate and coffee to 16 members, the 2 speakers and Lamar Cox.

Thinks Eating Out Cheaper in Long Run

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Prof. John M. Welch of the University of Missouri thinks the feminists have been right all along: a woman's place isn't in the home. Her time is worth more than she saves slaving in the kitchen.

"Take the cost of food in a restaurant and subtract from it the cost of buying and operating kitchen equipment and the cost of food," he said Tuesday.

"You'll find the difference leaves about 10 cents an hour for Mom's time over a hot stove and in crowded supermarkets."

An extension economist for the Columbia, Mo. university, Welch said the trend toward eating out in America was a healthy one. At the turn of the century, he said, one in 20 meals was eaten in a mass food service establishment. Now the figure is one of three meals.

"It's all supply and demand," he said. The bulk of restaurant business goes to the chain establishments, leaving the field open for independent restaurateurs at the top and the bottom of the scale.

"Food is down the list on what attracts people to restaurants," Welch declared.

"The main thing is atmosphere—a combination of acceptable food, service and surroundings. Service is the most important."

Television and Radio

By JERRY BUCK

AP Television-Radio Writer CHICAGO (AP) — Dinah Shore asked: "Is anybody here superstitious? I just broke a mirror." She spun around on her heels and wet a finger.

Dinah, blonde, in a white, ruffled gown, was standing in the middle of a crowded reception at the Conrad Hilton Hotel called to celebrate her return to NBC after an absence of seven years.

She will star in a morning show beginning in July called "Dinah's Place." The show, to be seen at 10 a.m. EST Mondays through Fridays, will replace the game show "It Takes Two."

Her producer, Bob Stivers, a large bearded man, explained: "What it's going to take in everything interesting to women. Singing, fashions, cooking, gossip, big name guests."

"Every show will have a theme," he said. "It's not really a talk show, although we'll have talk."

Miss Shore was one of the reigning queens of television. Her variety show was a Sunday night fixture on NBC for many years until 1963.

She starred in a special, "Like Hepi" first seen on NBC in April 1969, and seen on CBS last Friday night. Dinah has been a frequent guest on the talk shows and hosted the NBC "Tonight" show twice in 1968.

"What really got me started on this was my cohost duties for a week on the Mike Douglas Show," she said.

"I saw how an operation like that can move without you killing yourself."

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

Dear Helen: A favorite comment of the older generation is, "When we were young, we went to the movies and then to the ice cream parlor, and then home"—implying they didn't go looking for trouble like us teens do.

They don't consider how many movies are barred to us and how darned expensive they are. Also, if we make an eating place a teen hangout, pretty soon it gets closed down as a "public nuisance."

There was a great "teen night-club" in our town, but the police busted some guys there for "holding," and now it's gone. Most of us acted okay, but only a few stories in the paper were enough to turn adults against it.

Seems like there isn't much else for us to do except to out in cars and park. We are even tossed out of public parks because of pot raids.

If more than five of us are seen together just goofing off, somebody thinks we're going to start a riot and turns us in.

So why shouldn't we stock up with six-packs and do what is expected of us? What's left but to ride around and get drunk—L.D.

Dear L: The big cop-out: Nobody loves us. So we'll just ride around and get drunk.

Defense Was Best of Day, Broyles Says

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) —The Arkansas Razorbacks scrimmaged for one hour and 20 minutes Wednesday and coach Frank Broyles admitted he was pleased with the work of the defensive units.

"The defense just overpowered the offense," Broyles said. "They had a few stunts and just overpowered them with it."

"The receivers just didn't have time to run their routes," Broyles said. "The offense just couldn't keep them off the passers. The defense got fired up and got better as the scrimmage went on. I was real pleased with that."

The offense managed four touchdowns during the scrimmage, including three by tailback Bill Burnett. Burnett, who carried 12 times for 106 yards, scored on runs of 35, nine and three yards. Jon Richardson, a sophomore-to-be who carried 18 times for 119 yards, scored the other touchdown on a 54-yard burst.

Bill McClard added to the point production with field goals of 51, 35, 32 and 43 yards.

Joe Ferguson, the highly regarded freshman quarterback from Shreveport, La., completed 14 of 20 passes for 85 yards. Bill Montgomery, a starter the past two years, completed 6 of 11 for 114 yards. Walter Nelson, who is also battling for the quarterback spot, was held out of scrimmage because of a bad elbow.

Nothing Seems Wrong With Tiger Hurling

By HERSCHEL NEESEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

As far as the Washington Senators are concerned, Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn suspended the wrong Detroit Tiger pitcher.

Joe Niekro is the latest Tiger hurler to take up some of the slack caused by the gambling suspension of Denny McLain, ace of the Detroit staff.

The 25-year-old right-hander, obtained from San Diego in an off-season trade, made his American League debut a rousing success Wednesday night with a six-hit, 3-0 blanking of the Senators.

It was the second shutout of the slugging Senators in three days by the supposedly weakened Detroit mound corps, although they were battered for 17 hits and 14 runs in the middle game of the series. Mickey Lolich stopped Washington on seven hits opening day.

Elsewhere, pitching also was the order of the day—and night. Kansas City's Dick Drago stopped Oakland 2-0 on a four-hitter, Mike Cuellar hurled Baltimore past Cleveland 3-2 and three California pitchers combined to hand Milwaukee its second straight setback 6-1.

In the National League, St. Louis trounced Montreal 7-2, Atlanta whipped San Diego 6-1, San Francisco edged Houston 5-4 and Cincinnati beat Los Angeles 5-2.

Bill Freehan's two-run homer in the seventh inning following Willie Horton's single broke up a duel between Niekro and Washington's much-traveled George Brunet, now with his eighth major league team.

Niekro worked out of three jams in the first six innings, getting Ken McMullen for the third out each time with runners on base.

Drago didn't permit Oakland a hit after the fourth inning and allowed only four runners as far as second base. He got the only run he needed in the fourth inning when Aaos Oxis singled, took second on an infield out and rode home on Ed Kirkpatrick's single.

The Royals picked up an insurance run in the eighth when Bob Oliver doubled, moved up on Kirkpatrick's grounder and scored on a perfect suicide squeeze bunt by Luis Alcaraz.

The defending champion Orioles made it two in a row over Cleveland, scoring all three runs in the second inning and holding on behind Cuellar's five-hit pitching.

Baltimore scored off loser Barry Moore on Dave Johnson's single, Andy Etchebarren's pop fly double, a walk to Don Buford, Mark Belanger's two-run single and a passed ball by Ray Fosse.

The Indians got one run back on Tony Horton's fourth-inning homer and closed out the scoring in the eighth on Larry Brown's triple and Eddie Leon's sacrifice fly.

Bill Voss drove in four runs with a triple, two doubles and a single to pace California past Milwaukee. Voss singled home a run in the first, doubled home another in the third, tripled one across in the eighth and knocked in his fourth with a ninth-inning double.

Tom Murphy started the Angels but needed help from Rudy May and Ken Tatum, both in the seventh.

Each layout differently," he said. "In every tournament I pick up the six key holes that can win or lose it for you. Here at Augusta National, it's No. 4, 5, 10, 11, 13 and 18."

Devlin said that any golfer who "plays those six in one under par for the week will win the Masters. I know I will." The slim pro—who turned from plumbing to golf—said the stretching out by 20 yards to 540 on the par-five 15th "will add about two strokes to the winning score."

"I would say that the widened trap on the first hole would add another stroke," he added. "I would take 280 right now for four days and 284 might handle it."

Although the Palmer-Nicklaus-Player gang won everything here from 1960 through 1966, there have been outsiders grabbing the green jackets for three years running. Gay Brewer did it first, followed by Bob Goalby and then, last April, 6-foot-6 George Archer.

The odds are against Archer pulling off a double. Nicklaus is the only man in 32 years who has been able to back up one Masters title with another, accomplishing the feat in 1965-66 with an 18-hole playoff victory against Brewer and Tommy Jacobs in the second year.

Archer Says Ben Hogan Has Changed

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Defending Masters champion George Archer had never felt the firm grip of a Ben Hogan handshake until this week, but Augusta National's reigning hero knew of the Texas hawk's history as a cold-staring, unfriendly demolisher of golf courses.

"It's not that way any more," said a surprised Archer. "Ben Hogan is a warm, gentle person and you find it hard to understand how he could have earned that reputation."

Hogan attended the Tuesday night dinner for former Masters kings and Archer said "Ben was obviously touched by all the attention. He got up and asked all of us to try to attend these former-champion dinners for life."

The 57-year-old Hogan won the Masters in 1951-53, but has been idled for two years with bad knees. He flew from his Fort Worth home just for the pre-Masters dinner of champions.

"Maybe he earned that tag of 'Ice Man' when he played," mused Archer, "but he's melted now. He couldn't have been friendlier."

Archer claims the statement that winning a Masters means $1 million to a golfer is "a lot of baloney." He said Wednesday he's "far from being a millionaire and not worrying about it."

"It's just not so," he said. "What you gain is being put in a certain, elite class for life. But, in money, winning here is high-

Strategy Pays Off for Giants

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ah, strategy. There's nothing like a good piece of it to turn a ball game around.

There were the San Francisco Giants trailing Houston 4-2 with two out and nobody on in the bottom of the eighth inning Wednesday night. The Giants had lost their opener to the Astros Tuesday and clearly, something had to be done and fast. It was.

Hal Lanier singled and moved up on a wild pitch. Steve Whitaker delivered a pinch double for one run. Now the wheels started turning in earnest. Manager Clyde Kling sent up left-handed Bob Burda, who had six homers and 27 RBIs last year to bat for righty Bobby Bonds (32 homers, 90 RBIs last season).

That move so shook Houston skipper Harry Walker that he yanked righty Jack Billingham for southpaw Jack DiLauro. King played the percentage game all the way, sending up righty Ron Hunt to pinch hit for pinch hitter Burda. Naturally, it worked.

Hunt singled the tying run across and moments later scampered home with the winner on rookie Allan Gallagher's double. That took no strategy by King, Gallagher already had delivered two hits earlier.

Elsewhere in the National League Wednesday, Atlanta thumped San Diego 6-1, Cincinnati trimmed Los Angeles 5-2 and St. Louis took Montreal 7-2 in the only games scheduled.

In the only American League action, Baltimore edged Cleveland 3-2, California dropped Milwaukee 6-1, Detroit blanked Washington 3-2 and Kansas City shut out Oakland 2-0.

Until the managerial wheels began spinning, the Giants and Astros had been engaged in a long ball duel. Dick Dietz tagged a two-run homer for San Francisco and Doug Rader and pinch hitter Jim Beauchamp—a strategy coup by Walker—cracked Houston homers.

Rico Carty drove in four runs for the Braves—three of them on an eighth inning homer that broke the game open, as Atlanta whipped San Diego.

Pat Jarvis hurled a five-hitter and Bob Tillman added a bases-empty homer for the Braves.

Cincinnati won its third straight with Jim McGlothlin beating the Dodgers in his National League debut.

Bobby Tolan tripled and singled, driving in two of the Reds' runs and Clay Carroll nailed down the victory, stopping the Dodgers after McGlothlin tired in the eighth.

It was the third straight strong hurling performance for the supposedly pitcher-poor Reds who got a two-hitter from Gary Nolan Tuesday and a three-hitter from Jim Merritt in Monday's opener.

Richie Allen staged an explosive debut for St. Louis, walloping a homer and two doubles in the Cards' victory over Montreal.

Allen scored the first St. Louis run after doubling in the fourth, then tied the game with a homer in the eighth and drove in two more runs with his ninth-inning double.

Bob Gibson, with ninth-inning help from Chuck Taylor, was the winner, allowing just five hits—only two after the first inning.

Razorback Baseball Team Splits

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) —The University of Arkansas whipped William Jewell College 7-2 here Wednesday in the first game of a baseball doubleheader, but lost the second game 3-2.

Bill Dorothy socked a three-run homer to give Arkansas the lead in the fifth inning of the first game. The Razorbacks added four runs in the seventh on two walks, Fred Wanger's single, Mark Jones' double and Freddie Howard's triple.

Rick Hancock's seventh-inning single lifted William Jewell to victory in the second game. Howard had an inside-the-park home run for Arkansas.

Cardinals Round Out Flood Trade

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals have sent first baseman Guillermo Montanez to Philadelphia to compensate the Phillies for Curt Flood, who was traded but will not play this year.

General Manager John Quinn of the Phillies said Montanez would play with Philadelphia's Eugene, Ore., Pacific Coast League team.

Denver Has Tie Clinched With Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Spencer Haywood popped in 40 points in Denver's trouncing of Dallas, clinching a tie for the top spot in the American Basketball Association's Western Division and the Rockets can clinch the title with a victory Friday.

Wednesday night was Haywood's as he triggered the Rockets to a 152-113 triumph over Dallas. The rookie hit 17 field goals and six-of-nine free throws. He also grabbed 26 rebounds as the Rockets set a league record, snaring 93. The old mark was 87 by Pittsburgh. Denver needs only to beat Miami at home Friday to win the West.

The clinching was delayed as runnerup Washington 3 1/2 games back, knocked off the Floridians 141-137 in the opener of a doubleheader at Los Angeles before the Stars downed New Orleans 108-102. In other games, Carolina stopped Kentucky 110-106 and Pittsburgh downed New York 117-107.

Rick Barry scored seven of Washington's last 11 points in the Caps' victory. In all, Barry had 36 points while Don Freeman led Miami with 32.

Los Angeles' triumph over New Orleans enabled the Stars to open a 1 1/2 game lead over the Buccaneers in their struggle for fourth place and the final playoff berth in the West.

Craig Raymond and Mack Calvin topped Los Angeles with 24 points apiece. Red Robbins was high for the Bucs, also with 24.

Bob Verga's 28 points led the Cougars past Kentucky. The backcourt ace hit 23 points in the opening half while Darel Carrier had 33 for the Colonels.

Durocher

PROSPECTUS — Long winter for Leo Durocher and Ron Santo, neither of whom have done much heel-clicking of late. Last year's foldover has inspirational value, but can Leo rule with iron hand again and get away with it? Cubs have the talent, but they may never again achieve the unity they had prior to the '69 collapse. Leo's tension tactics just may backfire if he employs them again.

Hundley

PITCHING—Ferguson Jenkins (21-15), Bill Hands (20-14) are solid. Ken Holtzman (17-13) could be, but remains erratic at times. No. 4 spot could be taken by one of four rookies: Righties Jim Colborn and Pat Jacquez, lefties Dave Lemonds and Larry Gura. Bullpen excellent with Phil Regan, Hank Aguirre and Ted Abernathy. Rating—B+

CATCHING—Randy Hundley, one of game's best defensive catchers, proved he could hit, too, last year. But he'll get some rest this season from either Ken Rudolph, Bill Heath or Randy Bobb. Rating—B

INFIELD—Ernie Banks, nearing 39, gets call at first again. As long as he hits, he'll play there forever. Glenn Beckert at second, Don Kessinger at short are best double-play combo in business. Both are hitters, too. Santo, of course, is at third, his glove and bat unquestioned. It is presumed he will not click his heels after every victory or tongue-lash nervous rookies this time around. Paul Popovich is excellent utility man. Rating—A

OUTFIELD—Johnny Callison, acquired from Phillies, takes over in right. Had off year in '69, but not finished yet. Ironhorse Billy Williams still a fixture in left. Center is problem, though. It could be Jim Hickman, the ex-Met who has power but little consistency; Don Young, who dropped a fly against the Mets and dropped out of sight; Jim Qualls, who wound up there last season, or Cleo Jones, from the Dodger chain. Best bet right now is Hickman. Rating—B

TOP ROOKIES—Pitchers Colborn and Jacquez have best chances of sticking, along with catcher Rudolph.

Bruins Take First Game of Playoff

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Boston Bruins-New York Rangers game could be listed under Wednesday's Fights instead of Wednesday's National Hockey League Playoff Results and sports historians may someday call it the Second Boston Massacre.

The Bruins won the donnybrook 8-2 and if Ranger Coach Emile Francis' prophecy comes true the penalty box is going to be quite crowded for the remainder of the series.

It was one of four games as the NHL opened its best-of-7 quarter-final series for the 1970 cup. In the others, Chicago clipped Detroit 4-2, Pittsburgh defeated Oakland 2-1 and St. Louis whipped Minnesota 6-2. They'll each play again tonight.

Phil Esposito's hat trick and Bobby Orr's usually sterling play plus two goals highlighted the non-fighting moments of the Boston Garden clash.

"The die has been cast and it should be very interesting the rest of the way," said Francis in the New York dressing room.

Francis said the turning point came early in the second period, the Bruins ahead 2-1, when Orr hit the post with a shot, then banged the rebound past New York goalie Ed Giacomin.

"That was the backbreaker," said Francis. "Everybody seemed to stand around figuring the first shot had gone in, but the referee knew it hadn't. But give Orr credit. He had his wits about him and he made sure the second one went in."

Boston went on to score five goals before the second period ended, getting two within 44 seconds even though the Rangers had a man advantage at the time.

Eric Nesterenko set up a shorthanded goal and then scored on an empty net with 29 seconds left to clinch the Black Hawks' victory over Detroit. Chicago also got goals from Pat Martin, Chico Maki and Stan Mikita, who holds the Stanley Cup playoffs point record of 21.

Ageless Gordie Howe, starting a record-equalling 19th year in the playoffs, got one of Detroit's goals and the other came on a shot by Wayne Connolly.

Polish-born Nick Harbaruk, a rookie, scored the winning goal on a controversial play in Pittsburgh's triumph over Oakland. Gary Smith, the Oakland goalie, argued that the goal was illegal, claiming he was held inside by Pittsburgh's Glenn Sather.

Pittsburgh had earlier taken a 1-0 lead on Jean Pronovost's goal but the Seals tied it later in the first period on Gerry Ehman's power play goal.

Terry Crisp and Ab McDonald each scored a pair of goals to lead St. Louis past Minnesota, which took only 21 shots on goal to the Blues' 46.

Chargers Sign Quarterback

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Wayne Clark, quarterback at U.S. International University here, signed a contract with the San Diego Chargers Wednesday. He was the football team's eighth-

Borden introduces real fruit yogurt:

THE SKINNY LUNCH

We call Borden Yogurt a skinny lunch because it's light and cool. And yet satisfying enough to keep you going through a busy afternoon. It's made from nourishing low-fat milk. And blended through and through with juicy pieces of real fruit. Pick your flavors from the grocer's dairy case. Strawberry, raspberry, blueberry, mandarin orange, peach and a whole orchard of real fruit yogurts. It's what a lot of people are doing for a skinny lunch.

It's better...it's BORDEN

Would Reduce Penalty for Marijuana

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee, calling marijuana traffic an $850 million a year business preying on the nation's young people, nevertheless suggested today reducing the penalty for first-time possession of the drug to no more than a week in jail.

The House Select Committee on Crime said marijuana traffic "plays a major role in leading increasing numbers of young Americans into tragic drug dependence and into lives of crime and degradation."

But the panel's report, prepared for release today, called the present stiff and unevenly enforced penalties for possession of marijuana a threat to respect for law in general.

"The growing drug culture," said Chairman Claude Pepper, D-Fla., "is rapidly undermining respect for law and is doing serious damage to the ability of the criminal justice system to safeguard the lives and property of the American people."

"Savagely repressive and punitive laws cannot be defended as a solution to the marijuana problem," the 120-page report said.

It blamed marijuana arrests for a 322 per cent increase in all drug arrests from 1960 to 1968, when 167,177 persons were arrested, including 43,200 under 18 and 6,243 under 15.

But the report said supposedly documented reports that thousands of young people arrested for simple possession of marijuana have been jailed "are not true" and that the committee found judges seldom jail young people even for selling the drug.

Kirk Defies Handsoff Order

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — A U. S. marshal today served arrest warrants on three aides of Gov. Claude Kirk, a sheriff and five sheriff's deputies but took no prisoners when the men refused to go to jail.

The aides were in Bradenton to administer Manatee County schools which Kirk took over on Sunday and again on Wednesday in a bid to thwart federal court orders to integrate by busing.

Lloyd Hagaman, Kirk's top aide, and Manatee County Sheriff Richard W. Weitzenfeld locked themselves in the office of the Manatee County school superintendent and refused to come out. The other two aides and five of the sheriff's deputies refused to accompany the marshal.

U.S. Marshall Johnnie Barr of Tampa said, however, he considered the nine under arrest although they were not in custody. Kirk has been ordered to appear in federal court Friday to show why he should not be held in contempt of court for taking over the school system. Today, however, Kirk was in Tallahassee with his wife who gave birth to the couple's second child, a boy who weighed 10 pounds and one ounce. The child was named Erik.

About a dozen Florida Highway Patrol troopers in riot gear appeared at the school a short time after the nine men refused arrest. The troopers moved into the anteroom outside the office where Hagaman and Weitzenfeld were held up.

Oscar Blasingame, an assistant U. S. attorney from Tampa, said the arrest orders were issued by U. S. District Judge Ben Kreitzman who has ordered Kirk to court to show why he should not be held in contempt of court.

The arrest orders accused the men of obstructing justice. Outside the school administration building where Hagaman and the sheriff took refuge, about 150 black youngsters, some chanting black power slogans, staged a sit-in on the steps at one entrance.

Agencies Asked for Pay Plans

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A special committee of the Arkansas Legislative Council voted Wednesday to ask the state Highway Department for its own salary plan and the salary plan under which employees of most other state agencies are paid.

The committee is attempting to determine if the Highway Department should be brought under the classification and pay plan adopted by the legislature in 1969 for other agencies.

The beautifully rugged hills of the nationally known Ozark Mountains will literally echo with the sounds of laughter and the strains of real folk music as the Arkansas Folk Festival at Mountain View kicks off this month of fun-filled activities.

Spontaneous performances by hill folk musicians, plus an abundant display of the talents and ingenuity of Ozark region craftsmen of the Ozark Foothills Crafts Guild, easily keep visitors entertained throughout the four-day affair, April 16, 17, 18, 19.

The Mountain View High School Gym is the setting for the first evening's events as the Young Racksackers Folk Music Group entertains, with the next day bringing a school parade set for 10 a.m. Friday, followed by the old-time county parade at noon Saturday when the townfolk come out in full force with costumes and fiddles in hand.

There's a good time in store for all ages and types as displays range from old-time methods used in weaving, carving, shucking, basketry, to such domestic crafts as soapmaking, geese plucking, shingle riving and cross-stitching. Anyone with a "song in their heart" is wel-

Postmaster General Blames 'the System', Not Money, Manpower

By MARK BROWN, Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General Winton M. Blount, an advocate of postal reform long before the nation's first mail strike nearly shut down the postal service, says the agency's greatest problem is not money or manpower but "the system."

The system, says Blount, places responsibility for moving the mails with the postmaster

Strike Threats in Several Industries

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Although Congress has acted to avert a nationwide railroad shutdown Saturday, serious labor disputes continued today in the air travel, trucking and newspaper industries.

Congress approved Wednesday a bill requested by President Nixon to improve railroad negotiations.

The bill imposes the contract for the rest of 1970 to avoid a shutdown, which railroads had threatened in the event of any strike action Saturday when a congressional strike ban ends.

Both houses passed the bill quickly and overwhelmingly despite a warning by Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., that the legislation might be unconstitutional and could lead to prevent wildcat strikes.

The Senate also approved a bill boosting salaries of postal workers and most other federal employees 6 per cent. The $2.5 billion measure survived an effort to limit the raises to postal workers and the military.

The legislation was developed in collective bargaining negotiations following the nation's first postal strike.

The Federal Aviation Administration said air traffic controllers strike was easing somewhat and plans were being made for reducing emergency flight restrictions in New York and Chicago.

The agency said the 50 per cent flight quotas in the two cities were expected to be raised to 75 per cent. The normal flight quotas were reduced March 29 as the 16-day protest began causing air traffic jams.

The airlines are losing $5 to $10 million a day due to the strike, according to Secor D. Browne, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board. Total losses have been described as more than $50 million by the airlines.

Thomas Case Jury Is Deadlocked

NASHVILLE, Ark. (AP) — A Circuit Court jury which deadlocked Wednesday night in the first-degree murder trial of Cloy A. Thomas, 41, of near Nashville is to resume its deliberations today.

Thomas is charged in the June 16 death of his wife, Billie June Thomas, 39. The body of Mrs. Thomas was discovered Jan. 31, in a shallow grave 10 miles west of Nashville.

The all-male jury received the case shortly after 4 p.m. Wednesday and the jurors reported back at 9 p.m. that they were deadlocked 6-6. Circuit Court Judge Bobby Steel then ordered the jurors to resume deliberations today.

Officers said Mrs. Thomas was shot in the couple's trailer about one mile west of Nashville.

Thomas testified Wednesday that he did not know how the shooting occurred. He said he found his wife's body, panicked and buried her.

Senators Want Carswell Rejection Is Called Discrimination Against the South

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
While his supporters condemned the rejection of Judge G. Harrold Carswell for the Supreme Court, civil rights groups hailed the defeat. Others called on President Nixon to nominate a man with eminent qualifications and wide support.

Gov. John J. McKeithen of Louisiana termed the rejection of the Florida judge discrimination against the South. He sent a telegram to President Nixon Wednesday urging him to nominate Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., or U.S. Circuit Court Judge J. P. Coleman of Mississippi.

"This is a great victory for America," said Leonard H. Carter, San Francisco regional director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. "There is still hope in our system of government. We need not yield to despair."

GAO Says Army Spent $4.1 Billion for Education Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee recommended Thursday $4.127 billion in new funds to finance expanded federal education programs.

In the first of a dozen money bills for the fiscal year starting July 1, the committee approved $744.5 million more than President Nixon requested and $312.9 million more than was appropriated for the current year.

The increase over amounts requested by the President included $440 million for school assistance in areas affected by federal activities. The President had said he would request $425 million for this purpose later in the year. The committee decided to make the money available without waiting for a formal request.

The committee approved substantial evaluation of existing programs. The bill scheduled for a House vote next week included $1.8 billion for aid to elementary and secondary education. This is $194.2 million more than the President requested. Of the increase, $160.9 million was earmarked for assistance to educationally deprived children.

Other large allotments included: Vocational and adult education, $490.4 million. Higher education, $899.9 million, including $229 million for loans to college students and $167.7 million for grants to needy students. The grants are expected to average $580 in 1971.

GAO Says Army Spent $4.1 Billion for Education Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — In one six-month period, the Defense Department permitted the purchase of $6 million in defense production equipment although similar equipment stood idle and ready for use at the Army commands, the General Accounting Office reports.

The unneeded expenditure of $6 million was blamed on the fact that the idle equipment was not reported as available for use elsewhere.

GAO investigated the area of government-owned industrial plant equipment because of interest by the House Appropriations Committee and the Joint Economic Committee, the report said.

Specifically, the investigation found that the Defense Department holds some 34,000 pieces of industrial equipment valued at $500 million. The equipment is available to private industry for use in defense production.

The 34,000 pieces were assigned to 176 "packages," each containing equipment necessary for production of a specific defense item like artillery pieces, rifles, tanks or ammunition casings.

In some cases, GAO found the packages contained equipment with a production capacity greater than would be needed in a defense mobilization and in other cases there wasn't enough equipment to meet production needs.

GAO also found packages designed to produce equipment for which the Defense Department had no use at all.

In 1968, The Associated Press reported the Defense Department owned so much industrial equipment it couldn't keep tabs on it all and, as a result, spent huge sums to buy machinery it didn't need.

The AP study also showed much of the government-owned equipment was held in private industry plants and used by those plants for their own private commercial purposes, frequently without government permission or objection.

GAO recommended that Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird accelerate a proposed inventory of equipment packages to determine if each package is ready to go into operation if needed—and to determine which packages may not be needed at all.

In a letter of reply to GAO, Barry J. Shillito, assistant secretary of defense for installation and logistics, agreed that there were problems in the department's handling of industrial equipment.

Moon Shot Still Very Questionable

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Backup astronaut John L. Swigert Jr. begins a crash training program today to determine whether he can replace a measles-threatened member of the Apollo 13 crew in time to take off for the moon Saturday.

Swigert is to climb aboard a spaceship simulator with James A. Lovell Jr. and Fred W. Haise Jr. to practice such critical maneuvers as rendezvous and docking in lunar orbit and abort situations, on the launch pad and near the moon.

"The big question is whether Swigert, who has never flown in space, can work smoothly with the other two in maneuvers that require close and rapid coordination."

Lovell, Haise and Thomas K. Mattingly II have practiced together as a team more than two years, first as backup pilots for Apollo 11, man's first moon-landing mission, and then as the prime crew for Apollo 13. Observers say they are a superbly coordinated team.

Mattingly hasn't been dropped from the mission, but all indications are that he will be because of his exposure and lack of immunity to German measles.

Lovell, the Apollo 13 commander and a veteran of three previous space flights, reportedly voiced initial opposition to a late substitution, but later agreed to give Swigert a chance. Lovell may make the final decision after the trials are complete Friday.

Casualties Soar in Vietnam War

By WILLIS JOHNSON, Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The sharp increase in enemy attacks in Vietnam last week sent casualty totals soaring, with 138 Americans, 754 South Vietnamese troops and 3,334 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed in combat during the week, the allied commands reported Thursday.

It was the highest weekly toll for the Americans since September, the highest for the Saigon government in more than two years, and the highest for the enemy since last August.

Another 1,179 Americans were wounded, the U.S. Command said in its weekly casualty report.

The American death toll was 75 per cent higher than the total for the week before, when 79 U.S. troops were reported killed. That was the lowest in two months.

Boy, 14, Is Sentenced in Vendor Theft

PRESCOTT—Terry Wright, 14, one of two boys arrested for the theft of a Hope Star vending machine, has been sent to the reform school by Nevada County Juvenile Court being a two-time offender. The other boy, Michael Blocker, also 14, being a first offender was released in the custody of his mother.

The vending machine was stolen in front of Harvey's Kwik-Sak store the night of Feb. 28. It yielded 40c in cash, and the machine, costing $54, sustained extensive damage before its recovery. Hope Star had advertised a $100 reward in the weekly Nevada County Picayune for a conviction in the case—and the two boys were arrested by Prescott Police Chief William Stovall, City Officer Dawson Oglesby, and Arthur Lee Wicker, Nevada county sheriff.

Wright's conviction in Nevada County Juvenile Court Monday, April 6, validated the reward, and Hope Star's check for $100 was delivered by C.M. (Pod) Rogers, Jr., circulation manager, Wednesday to Chief Stovall for distribution.

Wright's previous arrest, it developed in court testimony, was for robbing a soft-drink box.

Also sentenced to reform school last Monday were George and Lloyd Guley, Negro twins aged 16. They were charged with entering a house and taking the following articles: Three mattresses, a bedstead, a coffee table, curtains, and a television antenna.

94 Forest Fires Destroy 5,000 Acres

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State forestry officials say 94 fires destroyed more than 5,000 acres of timberland in Arkansas Wednesday and that forestry personnel had been unable to reach 22 other fires as of late Wednesday afternoon.

State Forester Virgil Cothern urged extreme caution in burning and recommended that burning be delayed until after winds diminish and rains fall. "We're praying for rain," Cothern said.

Among the key fire problems, Cothern said, were these: —Sheridan, where five fires destroyed 1,000 acres. —Malvern, where five fires destroyed several hundred acres. —Clarksville, where five fires destroyed 500 acres and a sixth fire had not been reached by firefighters as of 4 p.m.

—Harrison, where three fires destroyed about 730 acres. —Hardy, where five fires destroyed about 800 acres and four other fires had not been reached by firefighters as of 4 p.m.

—Eureka Springs, where four fires destroyed about 600 acres and three other fires had not been reached.

—Salem, where seven fires destroyed about 600 acres and five more fires had not been reached.

Gen. Hershey Finds Very Little to Do

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I haven't had much to do over here," said former draft director Lewis B. Hershey, now an adviser to the President, "but then I haven't had many people to help me."

For 29 years Hershey directed thousands of workers whose activities affected the lives of tens of millions of Americans. Today his domain is two rooms in a federal office building; his staff, one secretary.

"I can show you around my whole place here in 35 seconds," he told an interviewer.

The tone conveyed not bitterness but the self-mocking humor of a man who says his formula for happiness includes "an ounce of worry—but only if somebody else furnishes the adrenalin."

Despite growing criticism last year, Hershey had stuck to his guns as draft director until President Nixon finally "reassigned" him effective last Feb. 16.

"It was inevitable," Hershey said in the interview. "And there's always a question whether you wait the way I did too long. But I would feel I was running away."

"I haven't allowed myself to regret it," he said of his reassignment. "I enjoyed the damn turmoil I went through over there. But I don't think I ever wake up at night and miss it."

And yet, after an Army career spanning 59 years, he said on his last day that he would miss having a command. At Selective Service he tried to know every headquarters employee by name, and was repaid with unwavering loyalty.

Since leaving Selective Service for the presidential advisory post, Hershey admitted, "I haven't worked a great deal."

"I've been out on the hustings a bit making speeches. I've got more traveling ahead of me."

"I do some reading," he said, pointing to a copy of the report by the President's commission on an all-volunteer Army.

To read, Hershey must perch his thick glasses on his forehead and hold the page about four inches from his left eye. A 1927 polo accident blinded his right eye.

"I write a memorandum or so," he continued, "but I don't think they're a matter of public discussion. I don't know if anybody reads them or not. I don't think you sit around and wait until somebody asks your advice."

"I attend a meeting now and then. I have seen some of the White House people, but I have rather religiously stayed away from the Selective Service."

The phone rang and, after a brief conversation, Hershey recalled how as draft director he was deluged with calls from draft registrants and their families and friends. Congressmen would call, too, about defense matters and legislation.

Now the phone doesn't ring as often.

Another phone call was from an officer at the Pentagon—it had to do with providing Hershey a chauffeured car.

Yes, his pace is slower now, Hershey says, "but I see a lot of retired people who have less to hang on to than I have. I'm 76 and some people think that's old, but I'm still active."

"I got a promotion out of it, whether I deserved it or not," he said with a chuckle, referring to his new rank as full general.

A few years ago Hershey said the one thing that scared him was "having nothing to do."

So he is glad he's still got a job as Nixon's adviser on manpower mobilization.

"I don't know whether I know how to be an adviser or not," he mused, "but I think an adviser should give his boss the best he's got. You don't just tell the boss the best things. You've got a responsibility to tell him things you don't think he ought to do."

That role may well place him at odds with his successor, Curtis W. Tarr, who says he wants to see draft regulations applied more uniformly throughout the nation.

Hershey always has been and still is against centralizing authority.

"I still feel it's best," he said, "if you give people responsibility and let them do it. You have to be careful that administration doesn't turn into meddling."

Hershey said he offers opinions on such subjects as the volunteer Army, student deferments, and the forthcoming Senate hearing on revision of the draft law.

Hershey talks on in his familiar, folksy, rambling way, clearly in no great hurry.

Bennett Comet Is Photographed

This photograph of the Bennett comet was made Wednesday morning by Frank King with a polaroid camera. The comet may be seen with the naked eye in the early morning hours. This apparently new comet is traveling northeast.

The most widely known comet, Halley's, was discovered in 240 B.C. and its cycle is 76 years. Another comet called Neujmin II was discovered in 1916 and it reappears every 3 3/4 years. The Halley comet will be back in 1986.

Pam even has a braille system for geometry and knows practically all the angles. She also has a braille writer, a typewriter for the blind.

Hindman says his daughter has always done whatever the other children in the family have found for fun — be it tree climbing, swimming, or whatever.

Several years ago Pam asked her father to teach her to ride a bicycle. He refused. She soon found she didn't need him and learned to ride by herself. Hindman says his daughter has also taught herself to roller skate and to ice skate.

But now to Pam's passion, a mixed-breed dog. Pam got the dog as a pup three years ago from a neighbor and has trained Skipper to sit, lie down, stand up, come, "speak," jump, and scratch.

Pam is fast becoming a dog expert. Today, a wide variety of braille books are available through special library services for the blind. Her vocabulary includes such words as dewlap and feathers. Not too many people are aware that dogs have feathers.

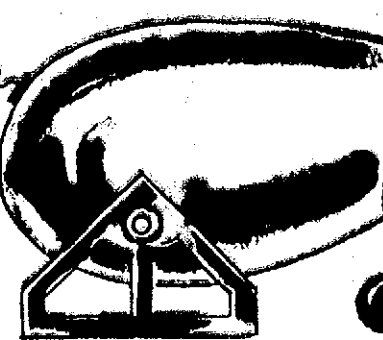

Dewlap is the loose skin under a dog's chin. The long hair behind the legs is the dog's feathers.

Pam has never seen Skipper, at least not the way another person would. She looks at her pet with her hands. Her fingers rub gently across Skipper's forehead, down to the eye, bump the nose of the small dog and she exclaims, "Beagle."

Next her hand glides across Skipper's back. Towards the end, it stops and Pam proclaims, "Setter." Next comes the tail. That she says is "definitely squirrel." Skipper is a mixture all right.

Mrs. Hindman teaches special education at Dabbs Elementary School. Her interest in Pam led her into the field 10 years ago. Besides Pam's twin sister, Pat, other children in the family are Anne, 17, a junior at Marion; Robin, 13, a seventh grader at Marion; Grace, 12, who is in the sixth grade at Marion, and Jim, Jr., 9, a fourth grader at Avondale.

Congress Has Cleared Rail Strike Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has cleared for President Nixon the legislation he wanted to head off threats of a nationwide rail strike this Saturday and cautious wildcat walkouts still may occur.

Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., who questioned the constitutionality of the measure, told the House before it passed the bill Wednesday wildcat strikes were a possibility.

However, the House turned down a series of alternatives—including one by Dingell—and then accepted by voice vote the measure approved only a short time before by the Senate, 88 to 11.

In Louisville Wednesday, about 400 members of four shopcraft unions at the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co. staged a wildcat strike in protest of the legislation. Picket lines were up at all L&N facilities there following a strike vote by the local L&N shopcraft federation.

Nixon had appealed to Congress to approve the bill legally forcing terms of a settlement worked out by the railroads and negotiators for four shopcraft unions last December.

That agreement was rejected by the smallest union—the sheet metal workers. The boiler-makers, machinists and electricians had approved it.

Congress, facing an initial strike threat last March, imposed a 37-day workout freeze which expires Saturday.

But no progress was reported during the interim toward solving the questions raised by the sheet metal workers. They talked at work rules changes imposed upon by the carriers permitting craftsmen to cross jurisdictional lines for "incidental work."

Dingell and other Democratic liberals on the House Commerce Committee argued Congress was being asked to go far beyond the point it ever has before in resolving a labor dispute.

Dingell wanted the House to permit that part of the settlement agreed upon to go into effect while setting up an arbitration board to handle the unresolved portions. But this was turned down by voice vote, as was a suggestion by Rep. J. J. Pickle, D-Tex., to substitute an arbitration board like the one which settled a 1967 railroad dispute to conduct, as he described it, "mediation to finality."

"Compulsory legislation is repugnant to us all but we can't run away from our responsibility when the public interest is concerned," said Rep. Samuel L. Devine, R-Ohio.

Musical Teeth Driving Her to Extraction

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A Daytona Beach housewife who has been receiving musical radio signals through her teeth has a mouthful of new fillings today, but still may be driven to extraction.

The woman, who agreed to talk about it only if her name wasn't used, said Wednesday she had all her fillings but one replaced by plastic. She said a metal filling was left because it involved a root and might have to be pulled.

The music stopped for three days. She had been picking up the signals since the night of March 16 and had been sleeping in a motel out of range of her neighborhood to get peace.

Then her teeth tuned up again, much weaker than before, but still there.

Electronics experts say they believe the music is being transmitted by a person using a wireless phonograph to send signals to another part of his house.

A dentist, Dr. J. H. Long, explained that two metals such as gold and amalgam fillings, plus acid in saliva, could set up a potential receiving system such as the woman's mouth.

Governor Keeps Plans to Himself

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller told a news conference Wednesday that he was not yet ready to say whether he will run for a third term.

Rockefeller said he would reveal his plans at a time of his own choosing but declined to indicate when that might be.

The governor said, however, that he is giving serious consideration to the question of whether it would be in the best interest of the state and the Republican party for him to run again.

Rockefeller said that in the last three weeks "certain things came to my attention that made me realize it would be a mistake for me to take a position at this time" on seeking a third term.

Rockefeller said before his election in 1966 that he would not run for more than two terms. He admitted recently that he was "obviously naive" in making the statement.

"I am giving serious thought to the fact that, that which I promised the people in 1964, 1966 and 1968 I have not been able to accomplish, and if it is in the best interest of Arkansas and the Republican party it seems appropriate that I run for office a third term," Rockefeller said. "I am giving it serious consideration."

Rockefeller was elected to the first of two terms in 1966 after running unsuccessfully against former Gov. Orval E. Faubus in 1964.

The governor told newsmen he might go on television to announce his decision, adding, "I will not dribble it out. It will be emphatic and strong."

Rockefeller said the possibility that he would seek a third term was the first time he had "equivocated or deviated" from his position of beliefs.

Rockefeller said many Republicans, including state Rep. George Nowotny Jr. of Fort Smith, are "prepared and qualified" to succeed him in the governor's office.

Nowotny, who has announced for the GOP nomination, said recently that he did not believe Rockefeller would run again. The governor called the statement Nowotny's "own preconceptions."

Rockefeller said last month's special session did not accomplish long-range solutions to the state's problems, but would not say whether he would use the actions of the legislature in a campaign for a third term.

Rockefeller, replying to criticism by Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell who announced Monday for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said: "Hopefully, he has been so busy fulfilling his business as attorney general that he is not as aware of what is going on as I am."

Purcell had said the voters would not re-elect Rockefeller after they learned the facts about his performance.

Change by Cook Was Last Chance

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — When Sen. Marlow Cook, R-Ky., cast a "nay" vote, Judge G. Harold Carswell and the friends and relatives who surrounded him knew his Supreme Court chance was dead.

Cook had voted for the nomination in the Judiciary Committee and had declared that the judge was being introduced by his critics, a family member said.

"He told the judge once, 'Good God, Harold, they are ruining you by innuendo,'" said Carswell's son-in-law, Fenton Langston. "And then he comes back with some trumped up tale about why he changed his vote."

The 50-year-old judge followed the vote on two television sets, tuned to different networks, along with several dozen friends and relatives in his big Lake Jackson home.

When the vote was announced, Carswell walked away from the television and sat down on a couch.

"It's a relief... I'm glad it's over," he was quoted as saying by Tallahassee Postmaster Peyton Yon, a close family friend.

Then the judge and his wife, Virginia, went into a bedroom to talk privately.

A friend said the vote did not catch the Carswell home by surprise. A call expressing gloom had come from the White House in midmorning.

Afterwards, calls came from President Nixon, Florida Sen. Ed Gurney and Atty.

Langston, who lives next door to Carswell and sees him most mornings at breakfast, said the judge is "a family-type person and he's very pleased he won't have to leave his home."

Mrs. Carswell took the news calmly, but during the debate on the nomination "she just couldn't believe people could fabricate allegations from nothing as they did," Langston added.

Postal Hike Survives More to Trim

By LAWRENCE L. KNUSTON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill boosting salaries of postal workers and most other federal employees by 6 per cent has passed the Senate after surviving a move to trim the $2.5 billion measure.

Born in collective bargaining negotiations following the nation's first postal strike, the general pay raise bill was approved 84 to 1 Wednesday and sent to the House despite attacks that it is fiscally irresponsible.

Amendments to limit pay raises to postal workers and the military, bar congressional employees from pay hikes and substitute a $400 cash raise for the across-the-board formula went down to defeat.

The final vote, with only Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., dissenting, did not reflect the anger of some senators.

"You're going to continue to pay the people who violated the law by striking and you're going to reward them with a pay raise," declared Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb.

"The simple fact is that there's no money in the till to pay for this irresponsible extravagance. We haven't the courage to tax the people sufficiently to pay for even the day-to-day needs of this government."

Curtis' amendment to strike all but postal and military personnel from the bill failed by a heavy vote, as did Arkansas Sen. J. W. Fulbright's move to provide for a $400 cash raise. Curtis also lost on an amendment to remove legislative employees from the bill.

Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., chairman of the Post Office Committee, urged against tampering with the negotiated formula worked out by government and union negotiators.

He and Sen. Hiram Fong of Hawaii, ranking GOP member of the committee, said Nixon had assured them privately funds can be found to finance the measure.

They said a vote approving the 6 per cent increase was not a commitment to a subsequent 8 per cent increase for postal employees alone, postal reorganization or Nixon's bid to raise the first-class stamp from six cents to a dime to pay for part of the postal wage settlement.

As it cleared the Senate, the bill also extends the 6 per cent raise to the employees of the House and Senate, to judges of the District of Columbia and to the five-man staffs of former Presidents Harry Truman and Lyndon B. Johnson.

Arkansas Grant for Teachers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Office of Education has approved a $191,233 grant to Arkansas for attracting and qualifying classroom personnel to meet shortages of teachers and teachers' aides.

Rep. John Paul Hammer-schmidt, R-Ark., made the announcement Wednesday. He also said a second allocation of $34,600 has been allocated by the National Institute of Health for nursing scholarships in Arkansas.

Lane Returns $150,000 He Borrowed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Philip S. Anderson of Little Rock, attorney for a New Orleans bank which filed suit against Harlan Lane of Little Rock, said Wednesday that Lane had repaid the $150,000 he borrowed a year ago.

Anderson said Lane paid the principal and interest in full Wednesday along with the court costs and attorney's fee the Bank of New Orleans and Trust Co. incurred in filing suit to collect the money.

Lane had borrowed the money on two $75,000 promissory notes. The notes were secured by 612,834 shares of stock in La-Co Inc. of Little Rock.

The bank filed the suit against Lane in U.S. District Court in February and also filed a suit seeking a preliminary injunction to prevent La-Co from disposing of its assets without prior approval of the court.

Anderson and Leon B. Catlett, Lane's attorney, filed stipulations Wednesday stating that the suits may be dismissed.

Visitors may enter the head of the Statue of Liberty, but not the torch.
